Director of Maternal Mental Health

Description

Reporting to our Chief Clinical Officer and Chief Operations Officer, the Director of Maternal Mental Health is responsible for assessing, diagnosing and treating clients experiencing mental health and psychological distress.

In addition to carrying a clinical caseload, the primary responsibility of the Director of Maternal Mental Health will be threefold: developing a model where clinicians can develop an expertise in working with perinatal issues, develop an effective model for providing services to perinatal clients, and finally developing and ensuring an adequate marketing model and relationship development with perinatal clients. The role will include providing supervision and assisting in managing and building the team of providers, who are licensed, interns or working towards licensure in the state of Indiana and whose primary interest is serving perinatal clients.

Responsibilities

- Participating in the interview process for new clinicians who fit the Pillars of Wellness mission and values.
- Leading in the development of programs to better serve Maternal Mental Health clients and helping apply those learnings to other Pillars of Wellness Centers of Excellence.
- Serving as a community liaison with universities throughout states where Pillars provides university services to assist in the internship and employee recruitment efforts at Pillars of Wellness.
- Providing evidence based counseling and psychotherapy to clients.
- Identifying culturally appropriate treatment to meet clients experiences and individual needs.
- Conducting online group therapy sessions for clients based on specific needs (e.g., emotional regulation, anger management, depression, anxiety, relationship issues, etc.).
- Working with clients to set SMART goals and develop individualized treatment plans.
- Giving clients adequate resources to gain insight through a strength based
